

Caring For Your Pond Over The Winter

Just some of the basics to consider...

Make sure you clean your pond in the fall. The cleaner the pond, the less you have to worry about poisonous gases building up under an icy surface.

If you live in an area with harsh winters, remove or deactivate your pond filtration and submersible pump at first frost (Koi and Comet goldfish and hardy plants can remain year round). The metabolism of these fish directly relates to water temperature. During the winter they will be dormant, and even if the ice melts, never feed them since the food will only contaminate the water. Use an air stone or a pond heater to keep the water from freezing over. Make sure that you keep a hole in the ice on the surface to allow gases to escape.

At the onset of spring (as soon as the water temperature reaches 50°) reinstall your filter and begin feeding your fish.
